DUNRAVEN DENOUNCED.

His Contemptible Utterances Deeply Resented.

No Words Strong Enough to Express the Contempt Felt

By the New York Yachtsmen for Such Outrageous Insults.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. There was great indignation among the members of the New York Yacht Club this morning over Lord Dunraven's statement published this morning. The members generally could not find terms strong enough to express their contempt of Lord Dunraven and his latest act on in the great international yachting fiasco. It was a deliberate insult to the whole American people, they declared, and one that could not be passed over lightly. Indeed, the opinion of the club was expressed in one member's comment when he said: "This is more than an insult; it is a deliberate outrage and one that shows Lord Dunraven is no gentleman." All sorts of ideas were put forth as to the proper treatment of Dunraven's last statement. Many members suggested ignoring the matter entirely.

Others went so far as to favor demanding the resignation of His Lordship from the New York Yacht Club of which he was made a member in 1893 on the occasion of his first challenge for the America's cup.

James D. Smith, chairman of the America's cup committee, said: "I am astounded at the allegations of Lord Dunraven, if he is correctly reported. He makes a distinct charge of dishonesty on the present managers of the Defender and charges such men, mind you, as William K. Vanderbilt, Mr. Morgan and Mr. Iselin with dishonest actions.

"Such a charge is outrageous; it is false, it is shameful, yes it is shameless. It will only add to the contempt in which the late challenger is held by the people of America and also by the better class of English gentlemen. In my opinion it is one of the many excuses of Lord Dunraven to the English public for his failure to bring back the America's Cup. I desire to emphatically denounce his charges from beginning to end. The whole world knows they are not true."

Will Ask Investigation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. C. Oliver Iselin will ask the New York Yacht Club tomorrow to take action on the charges of Lord Dunraven that the ballast of the Defender was tampered with at Erie Basin in order to secure advantages in time allowance.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Nothing Known About Report That Satolli is to be Relieved.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. Monsignor Satolli, apostolic delegate, had an unusual number of callers today who came to see him regarding the announcement this morning in the New York Herald that he was soon to be relieved of his post here by Monsignor Laurenzelli, at present the papal representative in Holland. "Arch Bishop Satolli is in total ignorance of the matter outside of this publication," says Monsignor Sbaretti of the legation. "He has not received word from the Vatican touching the subject and can neither deny nor confirm the report."

AN OUTRAGE.

Brig Searched by Spanish Despite Protests.

QUARANTINE, Nov. 10. The brig Harriet G., which arrived last night from Nuevitas, reports that a Spanish officer with an armed force boarded the brig Oct. 3rd under the suspicion that arms and ammunition were concealed on board, searching the vessel in every part. Capt. Miller protested against the outrage, and the United States consul came on board and protested, but without avail. Finding nothing to verify the suspicions the searchers left the vessel without further parley. On board of the Harriet G. is Gustave De La Torre, a Cuban obliged to leave Nuevitas to avoid persecution.

BICYCLE RACES.

Some Fast Time on Pacific Coast and Records Broken.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 9. The closing day of the national circuit bicycle races here were witnessed by 6000 persons. The class B, one third mile, was a hot race between Wells, Bald, Murphy, Kiser and Coper. Wells won from Bald by not over two inches, with Murphy third. Just as they crossed the tape Murphy's wheel was forced against Walls', being thrown heavily.

They were badly cut. In the one mile open, class A, Floyd McFarland, of San Jose, won in 2 05, breaking the coast record of 2.11. In the five mile national handicap, there was a hot contest between Bald and Murphy for first position. Murphy finally forced Bald into second place, beating him by a few inches, with Cooper only half a wheel behind. Time 11.01 1-5.

PURITAN SHORE.

The Fine Fall River Line Steamer Stuck.

All Efforts to Get Her Off Have Failed Up to This Time.

Passengers and Freight Taken Off and Sent to Destination.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 9. Latest advices from the steamer Puritan, on the rocks at Great Gull Island, is that the vessel has small chances of getting off for some time. She is hard and fast on the rocks and it is said boulders project through her bottom well forward. Her passengers were brought here this afternoon by steamer Manhaset Supt. Gardiner of the company remained on the vessel and will not come back until his mind is made up as to how to get the steamer afloat.

The Manhaset brought 175 passengers and a tug followed with one invalid woman taken on a mattress. All proceeded to their destinations by the Boston train at 4.04. Capt. Scott has two tugs and lighters at the Puritan and will take off all the baggage and bring it here. The Puritan is making little water this evening and lies easy on the north side of Big Gull. She is two feet out of water forward with 14 feet of water at the stern, the vessel lying east and west on the shore. The passengers have only words of praise for the way they were treated while on the boat.

A northwest gale would break up the Puritan, so a redoubled effort will be made to float her before the prevailing wind can shift, a hard northwester being the worst possible situation in which the unfortunate craft could be placed. Capt. Davis accounts for the misfortune to the Puritan only because of inability to hear the bell on Great Gull because of the dense fog and well known atmospheric conditions around Great Gull during thick weather.

NEWPORT, R.I., Nov. 9. The purser's and steward's gangs from the steamer Puritan arrived aboard the Providence at 8 to-night, an hour late. Capt. Nickerson was in command with Chief Engineer Reeves. Her deck and engineer crews were picked up from the dock and repair shop gangs, so that there was left aboard the Puritan a sufficient force to care for her if she floats at the next tide as many officers who came from her think she will.

Those who have arrived here and were on the watch when she struck say she went on easy and although making water in the forward chain lockers it can easily be cared for by her pumps and bulkheads. Work is being pushed tonight on the steamer Pilgrim, which is laid up for overhauling for the winter service, and she will be ready to go on the line Monday night, when the Providence will again lay up. The latter left at 10.30 tonight for New York.

Still Grounded.

NEW LONDON, Ct., Nov. 10. The steamer Puritan of the Fall River line is still hard and fast where she went ashore at 3 o'clock Saturday morning, notwithstanding the combined efforts of three powerful tugs and two steamers of the Fall River line. Wreckers believe the Puritan is lying in no worse condition tonight than when she went on. Hope is entertained that she may be saved. Capt. Davis of the Puritan and crew are aboard the steamer and will stay until she comes off or there is no chance for saving her.

All freight on the Puritan was today taken off and forwarded to Stonington for shipment to the destination. Divers were under the Puritan today. They report the bottom not badly damaged. The rocks do not pierce through the outer skin. The breaks in in the outer skin let seven thousand tons of water into the space between the outer and inner skin and the steamer is weighted down as if she had a cargo. This water cannot be got out, neither can it get inside the inner skin and further damage the boat.

FIRE RECORD.

Three Steamers and a Barge Burned.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9. The Red Collar Line Packet Co. suffered $75,000 loss early this morning by the burning of the steamboats B. S. Rhea, Scotia and Sydney Dillon at the Riverside landing. The fire started in the Rhea at 2.30 and spread rapidly and in a few minutes the other boats moored together alongside were enveloped in flames. Within an hour all of them burned to the water's edge. The Model barge loaded with brick valued at $12,000 was also destroyed, together with a pump boat valued at $5,000. The Rhea and Scotia were passenger steamers. Insurance $38 000.

POLICE INDIGNANT

At Premature Disclosure of Ship-Scutling Practices.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 10. The police are indignant at the premature disclosure of the ship-scutling practices under investigation and they are preparing to cope with any possible danger in their case which may result from the forewarning of those implicated. Cruiser Fiona is being made ready to start tomorrow to arrest members of the syndicate. The houses and business places of those suspected in St. Johns are being watched to prevent suspects from making their escape by out-going steamers. Much excitement prevails over the matter on account of the reputed good character of many of those involved.

SALOONS CLOSED

In New York on Sunday Except in Few Instances.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. Throughout the city today the excise law was generally observed. The exceptions were where the proprietors of the saloons were intimately acquainted with the thirsty ones. Harlem was not so dry as was the lower portion of the city but that was because there were not enough policemen to thoroughly cover each saloon. The unaccountable relaxation of the efforts of the police just before election had given the saloon keepers the impression that the enforcement of the law would not be so rigid after Tammany's victory, but a number of arrests made last night and early this morning so thoroughly frightened them that only those well known could obtain refreshments of an alcoholic brand.

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

In the Condition of ex-Senator Thurman.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 9. At noon ex-Senator Thurman seemed to be still improving. There is now ground to hope that he will live to sit up again. He recognized members of the family today.

GUILTY OF FELONY.

Woman Convicted of Killing Her Child.

NEWFANE, Vt., Nov. 9. The jury today rendered a verdict of guilty of felony in the case of the State vs. Stella Green, charged with murder in causing the death of an illegitimate child at Bellows Falls last June. The penalty is not exceeding three years in State prison and a fine of $200. The Vermont law provides that a woman charged with murder under these circumstances shall be found guilty of felony, instead of murder under an indictment for murder.

RAID ON GAMBLERS.

Milwaukee Police Visit Three Places Saturday Night.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 10. Chief of Police Jansen began a war of extermination on gambling in Milwaukee last night. The police raided three principal gambling houses and captured 27 players and keepers and a large amount of paraphernalia. The Wisconsin Club, one of the places raided, was claimed by the proprietors to be running under a charter from the State and say they will contest the cases against them.

DAY OF SURPRISES.

Colby Defeated by Bates, Failing Even to Score.

Brown Gives the Sons of Eli a Hard Game, Which Ends in a Tie.

Bowdoin Easily Defeats Boston University ---Cornell Loses to Princeton.

BRUNSWICK, Me., Nov. 9. Bowdoin found Boston University rather easy. The ground was in wretched condition and the Bowdoins pushed the heavier men all around, much to the surprise of the audience. The halves were twenty minutes and fifteen. Bowdoin played seven substitute men but the new men played great foot ball. Kendall and Warren particularly distinguished themselves while Stearns and Bailey played a very strong game. As the ball was most of the time in Bowdoin's possession there was little chance for the B. U. team to distinguish themselves. It was clean game and few accidents. Score, Bowdoin 26, B. U. 0.

The second half was a repetition of the first, but Bowdoin's substitutes hardly played so strong a game, Stetson at quarter-back, having two bad fumbles. Bowdoin's favorite ground gainer was a triple play between tackle and guard and tackle and end which gained every time.

Bowdoin's line held today, Coach Hoag of Harvard, having done some good work with the eleven the past week. Spear, the new centre, showed up finely, while Kendall, Warren and Clarke gained steadily. Bowdoin's showing was a big advance over the late game with Colby.

Bates Surprises Everybody by Defeating Colby.

LEWISTON, Nov. 9. Bates and Colby played a hot game of foot ball in the rain and mud. Bates made one touchdown and goal the first half and one touchdown minus a goal in the second half. Score—Bates, 10; Colby, 0. Will Murphy, of Lewiston, was umpire.

In the second half Stetson replaced Moulton, Bailey went to full-back, while Baker replaced French. Bowdoin in neither half had her regular full-backs.

Last evening the staunchest among the admirers of the Bates team said there was little chance for the team. Colby insisted on last year's rules, which allow plays altogether foreign to the training at Bates this year. Colby used the mass plays which her men became proficient at last year. They proved of no avail however, while the Bates plays with tactics which the team has developed this season, bucked away at the Colby line and made one short run after another over the wet, slippery ground until the victory had been won.

Bath High Defeats Freeport.

BATH, Nov. 9. The Bath High School eleven defeated the Freeport High School eleven in this city today, 28 to 0.

Brown Gives Yale a Surprise Party.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 9. Brown played the game of her life against Yale today and not only scored but tied the game, 6 to 6, the first time Brown has scored against Yale. The game was played for blood, there was not a fluke in the whole fifty minutes and the spectators at times held their breath at the rapidity and dash of the game. Time was called frequently because of the exhaustion of the men. Capt. Thorne was slightly hurt after two minutes' play but otherwise Yale played her strongest eleven. The Brown men were desperate. They had everything to win and played accordingly.

Play opened at 3 o'clock with Brown's kick off. For ten minutes the Yale backs hammered at the Brown line and the Brown backs shot through the Yale rushers.

Then Colby tried a short "on-side" kick that was captured by Smith and the ball was Brown's, two yards from the Blue's goal line. McCarthy shot over the center for the first touchdown of the game, and Brown's supporters went wild. Emery kicked the goal. But here Yale woke up and played for her life. Dewitt, Hammond, Rogers and Letton crashed against the Brown line and inside of five minutes Letton had followed the 10-yard run of Chadwick over the line. Letton kicked a pretty goal.

Yale supporters looked up once more and when the half ended honors were about even.

In the second half, when the Yale men were relying on the Browns giving in, they received a bad blow. Brown was distinctly in the game. They pushed the leather to Yale's 10 yard line, and when Yale had twice reached Brown's ten yard line, rallied and saved the tie. The ball was 15 yards in Yale's territory when time was called.

Michigan Players Give Harvard a Close Rub.

BOSTON, Nov. 9. Harvard played the University of Michigan foot ball team this afternoon on Soldier's field, Cambridge, and won by a score of 4 to 0. A drizzling rain fell throughout the game and the ground was wet and slippery. In spite of the weather the attendance was about 4,000. The Michigan men expected to score and had hopes of winning on account of their excellent record this fall. Their team was heavier than Harvard and they played a fast, strong game, but weakened in the second half.

Harvard was strengthened at right guard by the return of Norton Shaw, who played a remarkable game. The two Shaws and Holt made a strong centre trio and kept the Michigan line from making material gains. Capt. Brewer was not able to play and his place was filled by Newell. Wrightington was field captain for Harvard and put lots of go into his men. Michigan's interference was clearly superior to Harvard's and their gains were made mostly on end and tackle plays. Bloomington's punting was not as good as Brewer's and an exchange of punts nearly always resulted in a loss of ground to Michigan.

Harvard showed great improvement in breaking through and blocking kicks and this was virtually what won her the game—a blocked punt at a critical moment. The game was very slow owing to the injuries to the men and disputes as to rules. Harvard was severely penalized for off side play and holding and the ball changed hands frequently for this reason. Neither side scored in the first half.

Princeton Defeats Cornell.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. Princeton defeated Cornell this afternoon in one of the closest foot ball games witnessed in some time. Contrary to all expectations Princeton was amazingly weak, considering the game she put up against Harvard a week ago. For the greater part of the time Cornell kept the ball well down in Princeton's territory and it was not till within a few moments of the end of the last half that Princeton braced up and forced the ball toward Cornell's goal line. The time was almost up and it was a question of great uncertainty whether it was possible for the Tigers to carry the ball the remaining distance before the referee's whistle should blow.

Duffield announced that there were but two more minutes of play when Princeton had the ball on Cornell's 25 yard line. Then it was the Tigers put forth their utmost efforts. Cornell's supporters were already cheering as though the game was over with the score at zero, but at every play Princeton gained from four to eight yards. Bannard and Rosengarten were doing their very best. Plunge after plunge was made and with the aid of a revolving mass play the ball went down to within 5 yards of the line. Two more fierce assaults and the struggling mass settled down directly over the line.

The officials hurried up and as the mass began to open up Bannard was found holding the ball down just behind Cornell's goal line. It was now Princeton's turn to cheer, for they had at least made a touchdown. Riggs sent the oval between the goal posts, making the score 6 to 0 and the game was practically at an end. The gridiron was in excellent condition and the weather all that could well be expected. Galley and Armstrong were injured, the former having his nose broken, while the latter is suffering from an injury to one of his legs.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

True Americanism and British Expansion Discussed by Ex-Senator Edmunds.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10. An informal talk was given last night by ex-United States Senator George F. Edmunds to members of the Union League Club and their friends, on "International relations in Central and South America." On a map which was hung along-side the speaker's platform, Mr. Edmunds pointed out the possessions of Great Britain, which encircled the globe.

This great expansion, he said, was not a conquest of blood, but of trade, business and English civilization. He gave the history of the origin of the Monroe doctrine. "That doctrine declared," he said, "that we would not look with unconcern (which in my Vermont dialect means we would not tolerate) interference of any foreign power with respect to the autonomy or existence of an American republic. That was the Monroe doctrine and it has stood as a standing menace to all foreign countries from that time to this."

Senator Edmunds called attention to the British claims in Honduras which have grown from almost nothing to seven thousand square miles. In British Guiana in 1861 the British claims including only a few towns with no boundary at all were given on the border toward Venezuela. In 1870 this small claim had grown to 76,000 square miles, and in 1892 to 109,000 square miles.

"That is British expansion," he added. "I hope and believe that the President and secretary of state will not let Venezuela be squeezed out of the mouth of the Orinoco. I hope the President will see that all our southern neighbors are protected in their just rights." Senator Edmunds urged the great advantage of the Nicaragua canal under American control.

WAS A SUCCESS.

Centennial Observance of Portland Church Ended.

PORTLAND, Nov. 10. The Chestnut street Methodist church today closed the centennial exercises with three crowded services. The principal sermon was by Rev. Edwin H. Hughes, of Massachusetts, a brother of Rev. Matt. S. Hughes, the late pastor. The meetings were of unusual interest and the celebration as a whole a grand success.

TWO SHOTS FIRED.

Case Which Caused Excitement in Rockland.

ROCKLAND, Nov. 10. Mrs. Charles Nichols and her servant girl, Miss Rawley, were badly frightened this evening. The girl was coming from church and Mrs. Nichols hearing her on the piazza went to open the door. Just as she reached the screen door two revolver shots were fired in quick succession. Both thought the shots came from the stairway inside.

No one was injured. Mr. Nichols was summoned from the stable and the police notified. A thorough search was made, but no trace of the miscreant or bullets was found. The windows were all fastened on the inside. The smell of powder was very noticeable when the officers arrived. An electric street light is nearly opposite the house, but neither of the women saw any one. The police have a clue.

CLEVELAND DENOUNCED

By Democratic Senators for His Financial Policy.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 10. At Tuscaloosa yesterday United States Senators Morgan and Pugh opened the Democratic free silver campaign which the Democratic silver leaders in conference here decided to inaugurate and conduct on the most vigorous lines possible until the State Democratic conventions meets. A large crowd was present. Senator Morgan bitterly denounced President Cleveland's policy of borrowing money as one which had never existed when the country was not plunged in war and laid all the trouble to the influence of John Sherman in favor of a gold standard and the demonetization of silver. Senator Pugh spoke on the same line and was even more bitter in denunciation of President Cleveland's policy.

GREAT DISTRESS

Owing to Drouth, Failure of Crops and a Plague.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 10. Advices received from Jamaica state that much distress exists in St. Elizabeth district. A thousand persons are on the verge of starvation, several having died from the cause. The distress is caused by drought, failure of crops and plague of caterpillars.

HARD AGROUND.

Steamer Irrawaddy's Passengers Removed but she Stuck.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 10. The steamer Irrawaddy, ashore here, was the attraction today for thousands of visitors. A strong south current carried the vessel ahead about 100 yards during the night. She is also about ten feet further shoreward than when she struck. This morning a tug took off the passengers and they were sent to New York. At high tide two immense hawsers were attached to the tugs and for 2 hours they strained on the cable, but the vessel did not budge.

Wrecking tugs will try at high tide tomorrow morning to float the vessel. It is doubtful if she can be pulled off until all her cargo is removed. Capt. Byers is not blamed for the accident as a heavy fog enveloped the coast and the captain took frequent soundings.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 9. The body of John Thomas, the last of the missing in Wednesday's disaster at Nos. 45 and 47 Larned street, was recovered last night, and this makes the list of dead just 38.

HEAVY FOG

Hanging Over the Coast Saturday Night.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. The fog still hangs over New York and its harbor, interfering with travel and increasing the risks of accidents to trains and ferryboats. A great bank of white vapor extends over a vast area, reaching from the southern part of Maine far down the coast toward Florida and west to the Allegheny Mountains.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

BERLIN, Nov. 10. A disastrous fire occurred at Ottensen, a suburb of Hamburg, last night, when Dietz's machine works and the Steinle company's tar works were destroyed. The loss is placed at 2,000,000 marks.

Barges Foundered in Gale.

HAMBURG, Nov. 10. A severe northwest gale prevailed here last night. Several barges foundered in the Elbe. No lives were lost.

British Steamer Sunk.

LONDON, Nov. 9. The British steamer Eustace was sunk off Lowestoft this morning by an unknown vessel. Her crew were saved. The Eustace was an iron screw steamer of 1009 tons, 258 feet long and owned by G. Pyman & Co., of West Hartlepool.

Another Visit From Pluvius.

The rain of Saturday and yesterday morning was again a welcome happening as the moisture was needed to raise the river, fill up wells, brooks and streams. There have been a few rains since the drouth but they have not been sufficient to make scarcely any difference (it being a matter of a few inches only) in the depth of water above the dam. In the recollection of the oldest inhabitant the water there was never so low for such a long period of time.

While it did not rain very hard at any time Saturday or yesterday the drops fell steadily and altogether a considerable amount of moisture was eliminated from the clouds. It might continue to rain hard for days and there would then not be any too much of it as it has been a very unusually dry summer and fall and a record breaker in that line.

It has been feared that the river would freeze up with the water at a low pitch in which case there would be a bad state of affairs, but it now looks as though the rain which has already fallen and that which may be expected before the ice embargo on the Penobscot will help out so that the water conditions may not be far from the ordinary state.

Whig and Courier.

BY BOUTELLE BROTHERS.

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle Brothers, and communications intended for publication should be addressed: "Editor of Whig and Courier."

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1895.

The New York Herald declares that judged by the result of the recent elections "it looks as if the Republicans may win next year," and then suggests another nomination for Cleveland. This is a doubtful compliment.

One feature of the recent election was the wrecking of several Democratic boomlets. Campbell, of Ohio, has disappeared under a Republican majority of over 100,000, and Willie Russell is trying to find where he is at in Massachusetts which chilled his New England boomlet to the tune of 65,000 Republican majority.

Senator Brice in an interview with the New York World says that "the result of the election makes it almost certain that the nominee of the next Republican National Convention will be elected President." There is no doubt about it and the Democrats who are talking of rallying next year are simply indulging in a little harmless buncombe.

The Administration papers are having a good deal to say about the death of Gormanism. They are welcome to all the comfort to be extracted from this review of the situation, but it is a fact nevertheless that Clevelandism will catch it next year even worse than Gormanism has this. It makes no difference who the Democrats may place in nomination. He will have to stand the stigma of Cleveland's record and the man is yet unborn who could shoulder that load and escape defeat at the hands of the American people.

The admirers of the Administration hold that as all the leaders of the Democratic party have been repudiated by the people it will be necessary to turn to Cleveland again as the only man really available for the nomination next year. The Republicans could not ask for a more satisfactory outcome. It would not only make their success doubly sure, but would puncture the Cleveland bubble so effectually that the country would have a rest for the future from the sickening gush that forms the chief feature of all political discussion in certain newspapers. We are aware that there seems to be no limit to Cleveland's conceit, but monumental as it is we do not believe that it will permit him to submit to this test.

The people practically wiped out the Democratic party last week, but the Democratic deficit in the Treasury is still with us. The question is one with which the President and Secretary Carlisle will have to deal, the one in his message and the other in his annual report, and the explanation these officials will offer Congress for the absolute failure of the present law will be awaited with much interest. The situation as admitted by the Treasury Department is bad enough, but it is impossible to tell the actual condition of affairs as the amount of the unpaid obligations of the Government is carefully withheld from the public. There can be no doubt, however, that the obligations thus held up amount to many millions that will have to be paid eventually.

While the Cleveland organs are shouting that the popular verdict is not one in condemnation of the Administration but rather of Democratic bossism, it is well to recall the fact that it is to bossism and machine politics of the most pronounced type that the President owes his present position. But for these elements of Democratic politics he would always have remained an obscure citizen of Buffalo. Cleveland's first nomination was brought about by the New York Democratic machine which he set up while Governor, and in the last Presidential election his affiliation with the Tammany bosses for whom he arranged a dinner for purposes of private conference has not been forgotten. It is also remembered that in the last days of the New York State campaign this fall he sent a telegram to General Tracey; commending the platform and ticket, the election of which he strongly urged upon the people, but in the political landslide in no other State did the Democrats receive a more thorough drubbing than in New York.

Utah and the Tariff.

The Philadelphia Press says the result of the election in Utah is to the Democrats not unlike the last straw that broke the camel's back. In all the efforts of the Republicans in the past to uproot polygamy they have met in Congress with the opposition of the large majority of the Democrats. This Democratic friendship for the Mormons led the Church to send a delegate to Congress who in recent years has always taken his seat on the Democratic side. Frequent efforts were made by the Democrats to get through a bill admitting Utah to Statehood, but it could not pass while the Republicans were in control of either branch of Congress.

When the Democrats came in full possession of the Government one of the earliest measures brought forward was that for the admission of Utah to Statehood. It was rushed through the House, but as it did not prohibit polygamy it met with Republican opposition in the Senate, and was "hung up" in committee. Finally the Democrats agreed to an amendment requiring the Constitution of the new State to include a section forever prohibiting polygamy. The Territory had a population far greater in numbers than that of other territories that had been admitted to Statehood. Polygamy was the objection the Republicans had raised, and with that removed there was no longer reason to oppose Statehood. Besides, Judge Powers, of the Democratic Territorial Committee and other prominent men of the Territory, appeared before Congress and advocated Statehood on the ground that the Church was sincere in its abandonment of polygamy.

In the meantime, the Democratic tariff legislation on wool, lead and the other principal products of Utah brought disaster to the Territory, such as it had never known before. Its rapid progress was arrested and misery followed in its train. An election held for a delegate to Congress resulted in the choice of a Republican by 1,800 majority. This amazed the Democrats. They immediately altered the bill for the admission of Utah so as to put the election off for another year and providing that the Senators should not be elected until 1896. By that time, the Democrats concluded, the effect of the new tariff would wear away and Utah would again be Democratic. But, instead of getting better, matters have grown worse. With an additional experience of a year with the new tariff Utah increases its Republican majority to 2,486 for Governor, and elects a Republican Legislature.

That is too much for the Democrats to bear. Unwilling to admit that they have brought this disaster on themselves by tariff legislation which has done incalculable injury to the Territory "they set up a cry against the Church, unmindful of the fact that they nominated and ran one of its prominent bishops as a Democratic candidate, and also another Church official, in order to make an appeal for Church support. Property in Salt Lake City and all over the Territory has declined enormously in value since the election of Grover Cleveland and a Democratic Congress. To assume that the people of that Territory would support a party which had defiantly brought such disaster upon their material interests is to assume that they are not capable of reasoning. But the election on Tuesday disposed of that ridiculous assumption.

The Democrats were wise enough to drop the bills passed by the House for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as States, or they would have met with like disaster in those Territories.

MINISTER SALISBURY

Will Deliver Speech at the Gild Hall.

China's Outrages—Little Hope of Another Race Next Year.

London, Nov. 9.—(Special cable letter.) Deep interest is manifested in the speech to be delivered by Prime Minister Salisbury at the banquet that will be given at the Gild Hall tonight by Sir Walter Henry Wilkin, the new Lord Mayor of London, who was inaugurated in his office today.

It is known that the prime minister will make a statement concerning the government's foreign policy, which statement has been prepared under the cognizance of his inner cabinet and it is understood that his utterances will be of the highest importance. It is only from side indications that the tenor of Lord Salisbury's statement can be gleaned. Thus the Duke of Devonshire, speaking at Sheffield on Thursday, referred to the comments made by the newspapers on the speech made by him during the previous week at Leeds, as being of too alarmist a nature.

Two cabinet councils had been held in the interim, and although the duke admitted the existence of the eastern question in an acute form, he took care to modify his previous declaration, which was to the effect that it was idle to disguise the fact that both in eastern Europe and in eastern Alaska events were occurring and questions arising which might affect great interests in this country. He added that the time might be approaching when it would be necessary for the government to appeal to all political parties for sympathy. This view, however, has, as above stated, been modified since the holding of the cabinet meetings and judging from the tenor of the duke's speech at Sheffield, the tension has been greatly lessened.

This coincides with the opinion held at the Carlton club in regard to the pronouncement that will be made by lord Salisbury. It is expected that the prime minister will be more than usually explicit considering the delicate situation. So far as can be forecasted, Lord Salisbury will state the fact announced yesterday that the admiralty has decided to strengthen the British Mediterranean fleet by the addition of six ships, but at the same time he will declare that Turkey must meanwhile be left to work out her own salvation.

The great powers will continue to reply upon obtaining from the sultan's newly-formed ministry the protection of Christians and the maintenance of order, but they have no intention to intervene in Turkish affairs. The powers will patiently preserve an attitude of observation and as far as Lord Salisbury foresees will continue to act in concert as hitherto. It is believed that the speech throughout will be more reassuring than the developments daily telegraphed from Constantinople seem to justify.

Another feature of the speech will be an intimation that the coming naval estimates will show a very considerable increase. An inspired note in the Globe says that Great Britain is not strong enough on the sea and has decided to build more ships. The Globe adds that it needs a strong government to propose a larger addition to the burdens of the taxpayers after what parliament has already voted for the navy but the ministers are ready to take the responsibility, relying upon parliament cheerfully granting the money.

Affairs In Critical State.

Shanghai, Nov. 9.—The Shanghai Mercury says a serious mutiny of Chinese soldiers has taken place at Kiu Kiang, a city and treaty port in the northern part of the province of Kiang Si. The troops refuse to disarm, and defy the local officials who are powerless to enforce their commands. The latest reports received from Kiu Kiang say the affairs there are in a critical state. The natives are in a condition of panic. The wealthy inhabitants are leaving the city with their portable valuables. The foreign inhabitants have armed themselves.

The Dungans in that portion of China who recently revolted were nearly all provided with Russian rifles. The leader of the rebellious Dungans has sent an ultimatum to the imperial government announcing his intention to advance upon Pekin unless he receives a favorable reply. The rebels are sixty thousand strong and have entirely overcome the imperial forces. Many large towns and hundreds of villages have been pillaged and the fields are strewn with the dead bodies of men women and children.

Reward for Good Services.

Constantinople, Nov. 9.—The Sultan has decorated Bahri Pasha, formerly Vali of Van, with the grand cordon of the imperial order of Osmanie. Bahri was dismissed from the governorship of the Province of Van in consequence of representations made against his administration by Sir Philip Currie, British ambassador. The official Gazette, however, announces that he has been decorated by the Sultan as a reward for his good services.

Wheat Crop Estimates Revised.

London, Nov. 9.—Sir John Lawes, the well known agricultural authority has revised his estimates, recently issued, of the wheat crop of the United Kingdom. He now places the quantity of wheat that will be available for consumption at 5,271,368 quarters, necessitating the import of 24,250,000 quarters.

Prospects Poor for Another Race.

London, Nov. 9.—The Times, commenting upon Lord Dunraven's statement, says: "The general impression that the statement will leave on the minds of impartial persons is that no efforts, however strenuous on the part of the cup trustees, could possibly secure a fair race under conditions on which they feel themselves bound to insist."

In regard to the alleged alteration of the Defender's load water line the Times says: "It is a most unpleasant story. While everybody must deeply regret that anything occurred to give rise to the suspicions entertained by Lord Dunraven, it can be hardly doubted that it was his duty to act as he did. Not the least regretable incident was the misunderstanding of the proposal that all the matches be resailed.

"The whole statement contains nothing to lead us to hope that British competitors can again challenge with a reasonable prospect of a fair field and no favor. That cannot be obtained until the trust deed is administered in a different spirit, and the concurrent jurisdiction of so many committees and bodies be abolished."

The Pall Mall Gazette, referring to Lord Dunraven's statement relative to the contest for the America's Cup says: "Lord Dunraven's allegation that the cup committee knew of his charge that there had been foul play in the measurements of the Defender and made no attempt to verify it is a most serious accusation. If the committee had investigated and found that Lord Dunraven was wrong they could have declined to race with him again with perfect propriety, not to say that they could have horsewhipped him with equal propriety. But they did not take any action in the matter. If the Defender's ballast was doctored it must be certain that a number of persons knew it."

DECIDE FOR DEFENDANT

PORTLAND, Nov. 9. A decision in favor of the defendant was to-day handed down by Judge Putnam of the United States Circuit Court, in the case of the American Sulphite Pulp Company, of Boston, vs. the Howland Falls Pulp Company, of Lincoln, Me. In Charge of Day Nursery for King's Daughters at Nashua, N. H.

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 9. Mrs. Rebecca T. Burnham and Miss Susan Sherman, the missing Dighton, Mass., women, are here and have been every day since they left Providence, in October, 1894. The women have been in charge of the Day Nursery on King street, for the King's Daughters.

They were known as Mrs. Tillinghurst and Miss Tabor, and that they changed their names as they stated that no one should know them. Mrs. Burnham says she left her home because of the unhappy condition of her domestic affairs for which she says her husband had been responsible. The story of her wandering with Miss Sherman over the country as peddlers is untrue. Mrs. Burnham started for New Bedford this morning. Miss Sherman is still here.

BREWER LOCALS.

Mr. Charles E. Tefft leaves this morning for Boston on a business trip.

Miss Hattie Smith, of Hampden, who has been in the city for a short time, has returned home.

A weather bulletin from the department at Washington is now posted in the post office every day and proves of much use to many.

Commencing to-night all the grocery stores of this city will close every evening, except Saturday, at 7 o'clock; this order of closing to continue until March 20th, 1896.

Mr. George Blanchard's new house on Main street is now nearly ready for occupancy. The exterior is now being painted and is being given very attractive colors.

Rev. Mr. Mosher, pastor of the Essex street Free Baptist church, of Bangor, preached at the new Baptist church in this city yesterday afternoon and delivered an able and interesting sermon.

Mrs. Ida Cotton and her son and daughter, Mr. Albert Cotton and Miss Grace Cotton, are to soon occupy the upper tenement of the King house on Chamberlain street, which they have leased.

The position of janitor of Engine hall has been declared vacant upon complaint of Chief Engineer of the Fire Department George W. Glidden, who claims that the incumbent of that office did not properly care for the property in his charge.

The schooner Victory is at the pulp mill wharf at South Brewer discharging a cargo of pitch and tar paper she brought from Boston for the new paper mill. The Victory will load lumber at Ayer's mill for Boston after discharging her cargo.

The stray horse which was found on Main street about two weeks ago by Allie Miller has been claimed by James Rice of Bangor. Mr. Rice started the horse for Amherst in care of the stage driver who did not securely fasten the animal and he broke away.

The hearing in the case of Charles Green, charged with selling liquor to Seth Hamilton, was continued in the municipal court Saturday forenoon and he was fined $50 and costs, from which decision he appealed and furnished bonds for his appearance at the next term of the Supreme Court.

The new arrangement of trains on the Bucksport Branch of the Maine Central goes into effect to-day, and the service will consist of two passenger trains each way a day and one freight train. The last named will carry passengers also, being a mixed train, and will prove convenient on this account to people who may miss the regular passenger train.

The body of the late Mr. John W. Wilson, who died from the result of injuries received by being run over by an engine in Portland last week, was brought to this city and the funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Wilson, on Wilson street. There was a large attendance and Rev. B.B. Merrill officiated and music was furnished by the Brewer quartette. The funeral was in charge of Wildey Lodge of Odd Fellows and the usual rites of the order were performed. The interment was at Oak Hill Cemetery.

MAKING TOYS.

The Art Descending From One Generation to Another In St. Ulrich.

Miss Amelia B. Edwards, in her "Untrodden Peaks," mentions many an interesting visit to the homes of the working people of St. Ulrich, where so many toys are made.

In one house, runs the account, we found an old, old woman at work, Magdalena Paldauf by name. She carved cats, dogs, wolves, sheep, goats and elephants. She has made those six animals her whole life long, and she has no idea of how to cut anything else. She makes them in two sizes, and she turns out as nearly as possible a thousand of them a year.

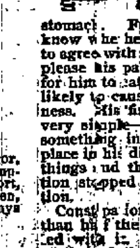

She has no model or drawing of any kind to work by, but goes on steadily, unerringly, using gouges of different sizes and shaping out her cats, dogs, wolves, sheep, goats and elephants with an ease and an amount of truth to nature that would be clever if it were not utterly mechanical. Magdalena Paldauf learned from her mother how to carve those six animals, and her mother had learned it, in like manner, from her grandmother. Magdalena has now taught the art to her own granddaughter, and so it will go on being transmitted for generations.

In another house Miss Edwards found the whole family carving skulls and crossbones for fixing at the bases of crucifixes, for the wood carving of Grodner Thal is religious in its nature as well as amusing. In other houses there were families that carved rocking horses or dolls or other toys, and in still other houses there were families of painters.

In one house we found about a dozen girls painting gray horses with black points. In another house they painted only red horses with white points. It is a separate branch of the trade to paint saddles and headgear. A good hand will paint 12 dozen horses a day, each horse being about a foot in length, and for these she is paid 55 soldi, or about 2s. 3d.

Welding of Iron.

Some experiments made on the welding of iron bring out a number of points of resemblance between the action of iron and ice. Both expand while passing from the liquid to the plastic state and both contract in the solid state. Some investigations recently made at the mint prove that wrought iron at a welding temperature possesses the same property of cooling under pressure which exists in freezing water.—New York Ledger.

THE pain that sometimes strikes a man at the most inopportune moment is due to indigestion. It may come in the midst of a dinner and make the feast a mockery. It is a reminder that he may not eat what he chooses, nor when he chooses. He is a slave to the weakness of his stomach. Frequently he doesn't even know whether the thing he eats is going to agree with him or not. The things that please his palate most are often the worst for him to eat. Even the simplest food is likely to cause him misery and sleeplessness. His first trouble was very slight—very simple—very easy to cure. He ate something indigestible and it stuck some place in his digestive system. He ate more things and they stuck. Part of his digestion stopped altogether—that is constipation.

Constipation is so common that more than half the people in America are troubled with it. It is so serious that nine-tenths of the sickness of the world is traceable directly to this common cause. A man's health and strength depend upon what he gets out of his food. This depends on his digestion. Constipation stops digestion. Anybody can see that. The commonest kind of common sense will tell you that. When digestion stops, nutrition stops, and the whole body is thrown out of order.

The way to start digestion is to remove the obstruction. The way to do that is to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are a positive cure for constipation and its attendant ills—headaches, sour stomach, flatulence, dizziness, biliousness and "heartburn." They are very gentle in their action. They simply assist nature. They give no violent wrench to the system. They cause no pain, nor griping, nor discomfort if any kind.

She Is Slashed Across Abdomen and Throat and Fatal Injuries are Feared.

MILFORD, Conn., Nov. 9. Last night, John Cummings went home drunk and quarreled with his wife. He attacked her with a large knife, slashing her across the abdomen, making a cut eight inches long but not penetrating to a serious depth. Then he slashed her across the throat twice, but just escaped severing the jugular. The woman's cries attracted the neighbors, and Cummings was arrested. The couple have been married a year and a half, but have not lived happily, and divorce proceedings have been pending of late. A week ago they became reconciled and since then have been living together. The woman's injuries it is feared are fatal.

Burke, who jumped from the express train near Burryville, last night, to get away from his wife, the train at the time making forty miles an hour, escaped without a scratch. After his leap he eluded a number of searchers, and arrived in town on foot early this morning. He will not talk about his affairs.

By Creditors of F. E. Spinney & Co. to Examine Books.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 9. At a meeting of the creditors of F. L. Spinney & Co., in Lynn, yesterday, W. B. Littlefield, W. E. Russell, of Lynn, and Wm. H. Elburn, of Boston, were appointed a committee to look over the books and report at a meeting next Friday at 3 P. M.

PENNY'S LITTLE MASCOT.

Six-years-old Harry Bryan, Who Trains With the Quaker Team.

Wherever the great foot ball team of the University of Pennsylvania is playing a game on Franklin field with some visiting team, a little chap all togged out in a regulation foot ball suit and hugging a little foot ball under his arm can be seen playing along the side of the field in front of the grand stand. He is six-year-old Harry Bryan, a son of Penn's able trainer, and is the Quaker foot ball team's mascot. At every day's practice the little chap is on hand, kicking his ball and falling on it like an old timer. He is a hardy youngster and disdains to wear his sweater, although he admires the big "P" on it very much.

DREARY DUNRAVEN.

After Being Badly Whipped He Uses Spare Moments in Making Excuses.

A London despatch says: The Field publishes a four column statement from Lord Dunraven relative to the contest for America's cup. Lord Dunraven relates what occurred at the meeting of the committee for settling the conditions of the contest and says he disapproved of marking the load water line with copper tacks on deck instead of visible marks on the stem and stern, but made no protest. Later, he wrote Mr. Canfield about it and received answer that the committee did not see the objection of reconsidering the matter. Lord Dunraven did not press the matter. The following day the first race was sailed.

Lord Dunraven is of the opinion that the Defender did not sail on her measured load water line length in the race. He says after her first trial with the Vigilant, when the Defender went to Erie Basin to be measured, Sept. 6, it was obvious to everybody on board the City of Bridgeport, Valkyrie's tender, that she was floating higher than on former occasion. Early Saturday those aboard the Bridgeport noticed the Defender visibly deeper in the water than when she was measured. Lord Dunraven was certain that she was four inches deeper.

He was reluctant to formally complain as it was impossible for him to verify his belief but when Mr. Fish went on board the Valkyrie, Lord Dunraven asserted his belief that the Defender was sailing fully a foot beyond her proper length, but no action was taken by the committee beyond ordering that the boats be remeasured and marked on the following day. Nobody was placed in charge. The result was that Sunday's remeasuring afforded no proof that either or both yachts did not exceed their measured length in Saturday's race.

Lord Dunraven then discussed crowding at the starting line, which he says was rendered so dangerous by many steamers that it was impossible for the yachts to manœuvre properly or safely. He gives details of steamers washing and blanketing the racers on the reach home. The Defender, he says, was interfered with, but nothing like to the same extent as was the Valkyrie. Interference of the steamers reduced the racing on the second to an absolute farce.

Lord Dunraven makes no accusation of partiality; says he made up his mind that it was useless to sail under such conditions and communicated the decision then and there to the gentlemen aboard the Valkyrie. Lord Dunraven discussed the matter of the fouling of the Defender by the Valkyrie at the start of the second race. He places the blame on the Defender, and says that assuming the Valkyrie to have been in the wrong, he fails to see what rule was broken.

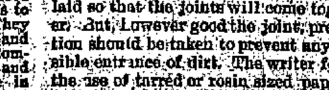

He accepts the verdict of the regatta committee as having been given in perfect good faith, and thinks their judgment was founded on a mistaken estimate of the circumstances. He states that he could not resail the race at the personal request of Mr. Iselin after the committee had given its verdict against the Valkyrie. Mr. Iselin's reported proposal to the New York Yacht Club to resail the series was never communicated to him. He would have been glad to avail himself of it with a reasonably clear course assured.

Lord Dunraven defends the action in withdrawing from the last race after the Valkyrie had crossed the line, and discusses the merits of the two yachts. He believes the Defender is the better boat on a reach, and that the Valkyrie is better than the Defender in turning to windward and running.

Ideas In Tile Draining.

A writer in the New York Tribune, who prefers tile to rock drains, even though the rock is at hand, gives these directions for laying a tile drain:

Secure a good grade and lay the joints so that loose dirt will not enter. When the bottom of the ditch has been graded, lay boards of inferior quality about four inches wide in the bottom of the trench, and on these the tile may be rapidly laid so that the joints will come together. But, however good the joint, precaution should be taken to prevent any possible entrance of dirt. The writer found the use of tarred or rosin sized paper to be just the thing for this purpose, as it is easily applied, and from its nature quite long lasting, even in a wet soil. When it has finally rotted, the earth will have settled and become firm about the tiles. Where a joint is very poor, or where the drain makes a slight turn, thus opening the joint to one side, a bit of tin or sheet lead can be bent down tightly over the joint, to the exclusion of all dirt.

A Woman's Account of Her Ascent and Descent of Cheops.

"When I was in Constantinople last month," said a woman recently, and it bespeaks the smallness of the modern world that her listeners thought no more of it than if she had said, "When I was in Brooklyn," "a man who overheard us talking of our future trip to Egypt took occasion to warn me, 'On no account, madam, try to climb Cheops.' To which I at once replied, 'That is the very thing of all others that I am determined to do.'

"I knew of course that the ascent of the pyramids was difficult, but it had been the dream of my life to mount to the top of Cheops, and I was not come so far to achieve it and then turn back with my purpose undone. By the way, didn't you always suppose—I did—that the pyramids and the sphinx stood in the midst of a level stretch of sand? I am sure that the several pictures of the sphinx whispering to an eager hearer always portray the surroundings so. But, in truth, there is what one might call a rolling country, sot thick with hillocks.

"I climbed Cheops. Each block is as high as a table, and the resting places are only about three inches in width. This makes hard work of it, as you may imagine, and would render it impossible if it were not for the help of the guides. When we reached the flat top—that, too, gives scant elbow room—my husband thought I was about to faint, but with the aid of a little water I was soon myself again and able, by grasping the flagstaff, to look off at the superb view. That look from the summit was compensation for all the fearful climb.

"But now another consideration held sway. We had over 400 feet to descend, and if the coming up had been difficult I wondered what the going down would be. My husband at last set off between two men, who told him blithely to jump from one block to another. Think what that meant—jump one's way down 400 feet, each leap to be about 2 1-2 feet, and with the expectation of landing on a narrow ledge of less than four inches. I refused to do it. I made up my own mind that the only method for me to pursue was the primitive one learned from seeing my children at home slide down the stairs. So I deliberately seated myself between my two native assistants and began to slip along as best I might. I found this mode of proceeding so great an improvement—although I can't recommend it either as easy—upon that which my poor husband was painfully carrying on that I called out to him to follow my example. He watched me for a moment and then concluded to take my advice. In this manner we did at length arrive at the foot of Cheops once more. But, oh, my dear, our clothes! My husband's trousers were torn into shreds, and my traveling gown was what is known as 'a sight to behold.' We talk of climbing the ladder of fame. It isn't to be mentioned with climbing one of the pyramids of Egypt."—New York Times.

Mr. David Rines, of the firm of Rines Brothers, of Portland, is expected home very shortly from a summer's tour in Europe. He sailed from London last week and was expected to arrive in New York Wednesday. Miss Rines does not return with him but will remain a few months longer in Europe.

Hon. William Widgery Thomas, of Portland, celebrated his 92d birthday Thursday. Mr. Thomas seems to be better than for many years, and from his enjoyment of life and interest in all the affairs of the day one would think him at least twenty years younger. He received a number of floral gifts, and kindly notes from friends in honor of the occasion.

Cumberland's county attorney has just returned from the West Indies. "The sentiment in Jamaica, which is an English colony," says Mr. True, "is against the Cuban insurgents. The reason of this seems to be that they fear the United States will get Cuba. There is much loud talk against the United States granting to the Cubans belligerent rights. If there are any Congressmen who oppose an efficient navy, they should take a trip and hear the talk in the West Indies. England's stock is way up and ours is way down, so far as national prestige is concerned. Every American I saw travelling on the steamers and in the West Indies was for Thomas B. Reed for President. The New England men and the New Yorkers were especially enthusiastic."

The announcement was made last week in the Portland papers that Mrs. Hetty Green, the richest woman in America, was at the Falmouth Hotel there. An inquiry at the hotel develops the fact that a woman who never registers, but who gives her name to the clerk as "Mrs. Greer," has been coming to Portland once in three or four weeks for a long time. She generally arrives at night and goes away in the morning. She dresses in a very ordinary way, but always wants an expensive room, first floor front, every time. She is particular to see that there is a good lock on the door and that a fire escape is at hand. Invariably when she leaves she tells the clerk that she was never treated so outrageously in a hotel before; but at the end of three or four weeks she appears again. She always pays her bill promptly, and without complaint. "I should think you would get tired travelling about so much," said a regular Falmouth Hotel boarder to Mrs. Green. "When I do I shall stop," was her curt reply. She has changed her hotel once at least since she began to come here, but it was for cause. The clerk, a very gentlemanly, but slightly fastidious young man, had just finished bathing his hands in bay rum as she came in. She smelled the bay rum and left the hotel. There is a notion in the minds of the boys about the hotel that Mrs. Green travels about to keep out of the clutches of the tax collectors, but this is not proven.

The Murphy Meetings.

Mr. Editor:

An important meeting is to be held this evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, at 7.30, by the Women's Christian Temperance Union and representatives from churches and all other organizations interested in the Murphy meetings soon to be held in this city. Mr. Murphy's methods and plan of work will be presented, and a general committee organized, with special committees on several departments. One of these is music, a good choir to sing gospel hymns being essential. A corps of ushers is also called for, and the assistance of all the young people's societies is hoped for. A finance committee is also needed, to receive and disburse the collections, and the W. C. T. U. earnestly desire that some of our business men will be present this evening and lend the movement their aid.

One chief feature of the work is the visiting committee, who follow up the pledge signers with such counsel, encouragement and help as is needed, and this most appropriate work interests the charity societies as well as the churches, all of which are invited to take part in this movement. * * *

Steam Log Hauler.

Mr. Ira Peavey, of this city, has invented a steam log hauler, a new application of an old idea, and is having one built by wheelwright Wharff. It is to do away with horses in the hauling of logs in the woods from the yards to the landings and it is claimed that tremendous loads can be hauled. It is a rather curious looking affair, consisting of two sleds, a boiler, housed over, being on one of them, the forward sled being for steering purposes. The boiler is of course upright. The sleds are propelled by a heavy iron wheel behind, which has quite a large number of teeth on the outside, the wheel resembling that of a steam roller used on the streets.

A chain connects the engine and wheel, the power being applied in a manner similar to a bicycle. Steam pipes are run inside the wheel to keep it warm and prevent the snow and ice from adhering to it. It is claimed that the steam hauler will be capable of drawing three sleds heavily loaded. The wheel is so arranged that it will rise or fall to adjust itself to the inequalities of the roadway, in which respect it is an improvement over similar contrivances hitherto used in the West and other places. The lumbermen are much interested in the development of this hauler and it is believed by many that it will effect a great saving in lumbering operations.

An Interesting Lecture.

The subject of the lecture on Sunday evening, by Rev. Mr. Philbrook, at Orono, "Saul-Disastrous Failures." Early forms of government were first considered and the gradual change from patriarchal to kingly rule graphically portrayed. These changes were brought about by various causes. Through the centuries man became fitted for advancement, and succeeding generations were capable of going far beyond their predecessors. At first, in the early age of mankind, government was a very simple affair, and but few rules were needed to preserve order. But these were found inadequate in a more advanced stage.

The Hebrews became a nation at the call of Abraham, and the vicissitudes of this nation, until by reason of their numbers and their strength, they were able to assert their independence, were briefly reviewed by the speaker. An outline was given of the interesting and significant events which resulted in the anointing of Saul as king, when for the first time in the world's history was heard the senseless cry of "God save the King."

But God did not save King Saul and the reign of that bad man was a curse to his people. His kingly rule was marked by dishonor. This form of government is destined to be overthrown. Men desire to chose their own rulers. The independence of the American people means something. It teaches that no circumstance of birth constitutes a ruler, but superior talents and genuine worth shall fit a man for high position. It also teaches that when a leader disappoints the hopes of a people the same power that elevated him should cast him down from his office, and in his place put one more competent, whether he is called King or President.

While the career of Saul was marked by most disastrous failures, it cannot be denied that God has permitted kings to exist since the days of Saul, although there is no direct divine sanction of this form of government. It is not strictly consistent with the rights of men, but it had its place in the childhood of the race. The great work of the Gospel is to purify government by saving individuals. Christianity shows a great advancement in laws and greater freedom among the people. It does not mark out a precise form of government, but it inculcates the principles upon which all governments should rest. The Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man it declares in plain language.

In convincing words the folly of attempting to set up an aristocracy was shown. Many things are requisite to a good government. Paramount among these are general intelligence and righteousness. America has furnished many bright examples for the nations of the earth to follow. The proverbial haste of the people, however, must be overcome. Radical reforms cannot be made in a day. Monstrous wrongs still exist, and we must labor for their removal with patience and moderation. Courage and the spirit of justice must prevail. Oppression should not be tolerated under a republican rule. Several valuable lessons were drawn from the rise of governments, the failures of Saul and the gradual growth of a republic. The lecture closed with a strong plea for greater care in the choice of leaders, and that the people by their intelligence and virtue become the true and only sovereigns of our nation.

The last lecture in this series will be given December 15, on the subject: "David—Moral Inconsistencies."

It was announced that on next Sunday evening, President Harris of the State College, would address the members of the Y. P. C. U. and others. To accommodate Dr. Harris, a change was made in the published order of services for Sunday evenings.

OILY FRESH NUTS USED

IN DR. CHARCOT'S KOLA NERVINE TABLETS

Therefore Physicians Prescribe Them and Patients Praise Their Effects —The Tabular Form is Best

Dr Henry S Tucker, of 126 State street, Chicago, and one of that city's most prominent physicians, says of Dr Charcot s Kola Nervine Tablets, "I am very much pleased with their action and from my experience think they are superior to anything of the kind in the market." Charcot, Monnet, Kilmer Heckel, Huchard and all the authorities on Kola as a specific for nervous diseases and an invigorant and systematic tonic, agree that good results can be assured only when fresh undried nuts are used

Dr Tucker would not have spoken as he did had he not known that Dr Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets are compounded from fresh undried especially imported nuts The makers guarantee this and can satisfy any one as to the facts

The benefits derived from using the Tablets by persons afflicted with nervous debility and its accompanying disorders—such as sleeplessness, bloodlessness, lassitude morning fatigue, melancholy nervous dyspepsia, rheumatism—are so far beyond question that the sale of the remedy is characterized by leading druggists as "simply phenomenal"

The proprietors absolutely guarantee infallible results from one box of Tablets

SKIN DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

To many people soap is soap, made, among other things for the purpose of washing the dirt from the body. Hence with nurses, and mothers even, one piece of soap is as good as another piece.

But what is it that causes the humor on the baby's face? In a large number of cases it is due to two things: First, the use of soap containing a large amount of free alkali, which irritates the skin, and secondly, to the germs often remaining from the fats used in making the soap, some of which are from diseased meats, which

ADJOURNED RAILWAY HEARING

Regarding the Application of the Winterport Electric Railway

The hearing adjourned from the early part of last week concerning the application of the Bangor, Hampden & Winterport electric railway company for an entrance into the city and location over Buck, Third, Cedar streets etc, was held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Common Council room before the special committee of the City Government, of which Alderman Grant is chairman

The meeting had been adjourned in order that the Public Works Company might be heard on the question President F M Laughton, of that company, was present and stating that he had had a conference with President H L Mitchell of the Winterport Railway Company, said he would like to hear from Gen Mitchell on the matter

Gen Mitchell referred to the conference which they had had and of the proposition to give the right to the Winterport cars to run over the Bangor Street Railway Company's track, at a fair rental, the Public Works Company to lay the new rails

He said that his associates three months ago authorized him to make an agreement with the Public Works Company but up to yesterday he had received no assurance that the power and track would be furnished His associates had objected to coming over the Bangor line and now wanted an independent way into the city, so as not to be obliged to pay its first earnings to another company but to put the earnings out for expenses and interest on the bonds It might be that his associates would be satisfied with the terms offered by the Public Works Company but he desired to confer with them before giving a decisive answer, unless the committee decided to act at once

Mr Laughton said that Gen Mitchell could hardly be expected to speak then for his associates as they were so far off He said that the Bangor Street Railway was the pioneer electric road and had paid the highest prices for its machinery and he thought that if any privileges were to be granted that the Public Works Company should have the first show, not that they should with a grasping hand take the first earnings of the Winterport company but in order that their own lives might be saved

His company proposed to ask for the privilege of building certain lines of railway to accommodate other lines coming into Bangor and he referred to the proposed lines on Cedar and Summer streets to Haymarket square, down Union street to the steamboat wharves, also through West Market and Mercantile squares to Haymarket square, and down State street hill He said his company would make a contract with these other companies at a reasonable rate to furnish power and lines of railway

His company already had a contract of such character with the Bangor, Orono & Oldtown Electric Railway Company and it had made a proposition to the Bangor, Hampden & Winterport Electric Company The B O & O company paid $15 a day and a similar rate with allowances for distance and power had been offered to the Winterport company and his company has offered to build such line of railway as would accommodate the new company

In response to questions from the committee Mr Laughton said the contract of the Public Works Company with the Bangor, Orono & Oldtown Company was to the effect that power should be furnished to run the cars on half hour trips and that they should run as many hours as the B O & O company chose Regarding the power Mr Laughton said the Public Works Company now had new 900 horse power engines which as an emergency could give 1200 horse power and then there never was a time when there was not some water power

The water wheels and engine work together and there would be plenty of power He said there would have been power enough this fall had it not been for the heating of that part of the machinery called the quill It would not be a week before the company would be beyond all possibility of a lack of power Mr Laughton said if a new track were to be built on the Hampden road from the Crosby residence at East Hampden to Dutton street his company wanted to build it.

His company wanted to control all the track in the city and he believed it to be for the interest of all that it shall as in eighteen years the company's franchise would be in the hands of the city The Public Works Company would build the new line and ask the Winterport company to run its cars over their line as far as Cedar street, and leave passengers in town Mr Laughton said that it would be better for passengers to come from the Winterport line directly into the city than across it by the Buck and Third streets line and his company could offer a better route

Mr Laughton referred to the fact that his company controlled the power at the Veazie dam, that it had kept its contract with the Bangor, Orono and Oldtown Company and would make a contract with the Winterport Company.

Gen Mitchell said his company wanted a license giving it authority to run its cars into the city

Mr Laughton said that whatever was decided for the Winterport Company his company wanted to build any new track in the city

In view of a possible agreement between the two companies the committee decided to let the matter go over until after December 20th and then if another hearing should be necessary, owing to the companies failing to agree, it could be called This proposition met with the approval of Gen Mitchell and Mr Laughton and the hearing was then adjourned

A Possible Mayor.

The Marlboro, Mass., Times, of Thursday, November 7th, in an editorial regarding the election in that city and candidates for the mayoralty has the following:

A TIE GAME.

Bangor and Portland Again on the Gridiron—Bangor Would Probably Have Scored had the Crowd Been Kept from the Field—As It Was Neither Side Scored

Over confidence, crowd on the field at a critical time, two cripples for half backs and muffed punts tell the story why Bangor High School did not win at Portland Saturday in the contest with Portland High School.

It must be admitted that the Bangor boys expected to win easily and as always happens in cases of over-confidence they did not work as hard as they might have done until it was too late hence the dull thud The game has taught them a lesson which they will not soon, if ever forget

In the second half they began to play foot ball and would probably have scored if the crowd had not invaded the field just before the close of the half and before the field could be cleared time was called, neither side having scored a point Bangor had the ball inside Portland's 5 yard line and would probably have taken it over for a touch-down in one more rush

The muffed and misjudged punts were also fatal as they lost Bangor many yards The ball was wet and slippery for one thing and the players could not seem to judge it The last wail is that regarding the crippled players Knaide and Hickson were so lame that they could not run at all and once Knaide with a clear field slipped in the mud and fell when if he could have kept his feet a touchdown might have resulted

It was not so much the strong play by Portland which enabled them to make the game a tie as it was the poor playing of B H S and that is all the more unaccountable from the fact that it has generally been excellent The game was played on a muddy and slippery field with falling rain and a misty atmosphere and only two or three hundred spectators were present

The teams lined up at 1 07 as follows

PORTLAND		BANGOR
Chapman, l e		r e Crowley
G Allen l t		r t, Chalmers
C Allen l g		r g, York
Gulliver c		c, Hunt
Welch r g		l g Gilman
DeClaybrook r t		l t Jordan

Robinson h b		r h b Knaide (Hickson)
Underwood f b		f b A Conners

Score—Portland 0 Bangor 0 Linesmen—Robinson of State College and Russell of Bowdoin Umpire—J C Minot of Bowdoin Referee—A T Ward of Bowdoin Time—20 min halves

Bangor kicked off to Portland s 5 yard line and Portland made 5 yards after the catch Robinson made a yard through the line and Bangor got the ball on downs but lost it for off side play Portland was held for three downs and had to punt Conners muffed the ball and Portland got it on Bangor s 20 yard line, but lost it for off-side play Hal Hunt made 25 yards around Devine, Conners 5 through the line and Bangor lost the ball for holding Portland was compelled to punt and Conners muffed Chapman fell on it on Bangor's 15 yard line

Bangor got the ball on downs Knaide made 15 yards, Conners 2 Hunt 5 and Snow 3 and the ball went to Portland for off side play Underwood was again compelled to punt and McCann muffed the ball Chapman fell on it on the 15 yard line Bangor got the ball on downs and had carried it back 30 yards when time was called

In the second half Underwood kicked off to McCann who ran out of bounds The ball was brought in 15 yards Hickson who had replaced Knaide made a yard, Snow made 5 and B H S lost the ball on downs

Portland gained 5 yards and lost the ball on downs Conners made 6 yards through the line and Portland soon took the ball on downs Portland had to punt again and McCann catching it ran 10 yards The Bangor boys now began to wake up to the desperate situation if they would win and started in to play the first hard foot ball of the game, which had been pretty slow up to that point

Conners went through the Portland line like a cannon ball for 10 yards, Gilman brushed aside a number of Portland fleas and gained 8 and these two kept up the good work by turns until the ball was inside Portland's line The crowd had encroached on the field and during the delay of getting them back time was called and it was blank to blank

Next Saturday Portland will play in this city and the Bangor boys will try and redeem themselves There will be a big crowd present without doubt and an exciting game may be expected

Around the Ends

Surprises were the order of the day in foot ball circles Saturday One of them was the Bates-Colby game which was won by Bates 10 0 and it was another demonstration of the futility of comparing score Colby had defeated M S C 36-0, while the best Bates did with the same team was 20 0 Hence it was thought that Colby ought to beat Bates by at least 18 0. Colby s last year s mass plays did not work and Bates line plays did work

Bowdoin easily beat Boston University, the team which recently held Dartmouth to 12—0, by a score of 26—0 Saturday, with the three regular backs, Stanwood, McMullin and Ives, not in the game In the second half Stetson and Bailey, both Bangor boys, were tried at quarter back and half back respectively

Next Wednesday the Boston Combination team will play Bowdoin and on Thursday Bowdoin will play Colby at Waterville

Portland gave Bangor the usual shabby treatment Saturday. The field was not roped off and only a few men, who were no earthly use, were engaged to keep back the crowd. The specials, constables or whatever they were didn't attempt to keep people back The Portlands claimed that someone had stolen the rope they had but a Bangor man well said that that was getting to be a chestnut, for the same thing had been said two years.

The Portland crowd considered it a fine bit of generalship to yell at the top of their voices when Capt McCann was about to give the signals, so the Bangor players could not hear the numbers. On the last play when Bangor had the ball almost over the Portland goal line a Portland reporter urged on the crowd and led the yelling as he said so the Bangors couldn't hear the signals.

The Longest Day.

June 21 is the longest day of the year, the day when the sun reaches its northern limit, the tropic of Cancer. At points on the line of the arctic circle there is the wonder of the midnight sun, and many tourists go long distances to witness the sight. It is singular how accurately the semibarbarous nations were able to observe and reckon, On Salisbury plain in England may be seen a cromlech erected by the Druids. It is a circle of huge stones which once

HABEAS CORPUS HEARING

Before Judge L A Emery Saturday in the Supreme Court

In the Supreme Court room Saturday Judge L A Emery heard a habeas corpus case which has attracted considerable attention in Oldtown recently It relates to the possession of a colored domestic, Ida Smith who came to Old town last year from Virginia with Mrs Robert S Browne, who came to visit her parents, Mr and Mrs C H Gray

While the members of the Gray family were away she went to the family of Thomas D Douglass, with the understanding that she should resume her duties with the Gray family when they returned She did not do so, however, but on October 30th went to the Gray residence Mr Douglass petitioned for the habeas corpus hearing on the ground that the girl was unlawfully and against her will detained at the house of Mr Gray

W H Powell Esq, of Oldtown, appeared for the petitioner and Appleton & Chaplin of this city, for Mr Gray and Mrs Browne There was quite a large number of people from Oldtown present at the hearing, including the members of the two families, witnesses and others who took an interest in the case

Ida Smith was the first witness. She testified that she came to Oldtown with Mrs Browne a year and a half ago from Virginia and went to Mr Gray s house where she washed, ironed and did general house work She was not satisfied with her clothing and educational advantages She said she was 15 years old and had been living with Mrs Douglass a year On October 30th Mrs Browne and Mr and Mrs Gray came to the house and took her to their house

On cross examination she said she lived with Mrs Browne about a month before coming North and cared for her child She liked the Gray family and Mrs Browne and her sisters were always kind She had been at Deputy Sheriff Lancaster s home during the past week and had talked the case over with him and his wife and Mr Powell After reaching the Gray house she wrote a letter to her father saying that she did not want to go back to the house of Mr Douglass When the officers came after her she put her arms around Mrs Browne s neck and said she did not want to go

Deputy Sheriff Lancaster testified to having served the writ, taking the girl from the Gray house one evening while there was a party there He did not remember of taking hold of anybody He stated that friendly relations did not exist between himself and the Grays

Mrs Douglass testified that the Smith girl did light work for her and had stated to her that she would rather stay there The girl had complained of the clothing she had had previous to going to Mrs Douglass

For the other side Mrs Browne testified that Ida Smith had been employed by her as nurse girl in Norfolk Va and before she came to Oldtown the girl s father gave her authority to take the girl with her to be employed as before with the understanding that she should bring her back to Virginia at some future time Her duties were light and she had good educational advantages They were all kind to her and she never made any complaint She told of going to Mr Douglass' house with a letter of authority from the girl s father and taking the girl home Mrs Douglass being away

The Misses Gray testified that Ida Smith was well treated and also regarding the conduct of Deputy Sheriff Lancaster that he did not show his papers when he came after the girl, etc A guest of theirs testified in a similar manner and said that Ida Smith had said to her she wished the Grays would return

Quite a sensation was created when the Smith girl s father, from Virginia was conducted into the court room He testified that he gave authority to Mrs Browne to take his daughter as a domestic and nurse He testified that he had sent a letter to Mrs Douglass giving her the care of his daughter, under a misunderstanding, thinking she was Mrs Browne s mother He afterwards wrote another letter stating that the first letter was written under a misapprehension He gave Mrs Browne further authority to keep the girl (Both letters were produced in court)

He stated that he wished to entrust to Mrs Browne alone his daughter

After hearing part of the father s testimony the hearing was adjourned to this afternoon at 2 30 o clock

For Cut Fingers.

Save all your old handkerchiefs for such emergencies. Wash the wound carefully so as to be able to judge of its severity. Then bind the finger tightly with a strip of linen Do not use thread or even another piece of rag for tying, but slit the end of that bound round the finger, turn the strips, one back and one forward, and tie.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Stand Off in Values.

"Fifty years or more ago," remarked the old gentleman I was merchandising on the Mississippi—that is, I had a boat loaded with all sorts of things that would sell and floated with it from Cairo to New Orleans dickering at various points along the shore. Sometimes we sold for cash, but often we traded for country produce and shipped it on to New Orleans or sold it in the larger towns One of our leading articles was whisky and we sold and traded a tremendous lot of it to the thirsty at every point we landed. After we had been out about ten days a fellow came aboard one day and wanted to swap a d_ for a gallon of whisky After some haggling he got the liquor and we got the dog. We left pretty soon afterward and as we floated out into the river the man with the whisky jug still uncorked stood on the bank and watched us go When we had got to what he thought was a safe distance he began to guy us

Oh what a dog! he shouted He ain t worth a cuss The meanest dog he is, that ever sucked an egg or killed a sheep He s meaner n pizen And then he laughed us to scorn and his gang joined with him

"'Wait till you try the whisky' shouted our entire crew and then we laughed a laugh that we knew was a winner for we knew what kind of liquor it was —New York Sun

Antelopes Possess Great Curiosity

Aleck had the oddest experience of the whole hunt at the same water hole a few weeks afterward. He had crawled on a bunch of seven and was lying where I was when I shot my buck He was waiting for them to feed together so that he could get a better shot and while lying there thoughtlessly kicked up his heels like a little boy The antelope had made no sign that they had suspected anything wrong, but they saw his heels waving back and forth and instantly all was commotion He dropped his heels very suddenly and lay there confounding his stupidity when he noticed that the whole bunch was moving up toward the spot where those mysterious things had been seen He understood it at once His heels made a new kind of flag and he was not slow to act on the suggestion He waved them again and again the antelopes stopped to gaze at the curious black things moving slowly back and forth up there on the ridge When the boots dropped out of sight again the antelope rapidly by their fatal curiosity moved nearer to them So they kept it up until the bunch was not 50 yards away He got two of them in range and drawing a fine sight he fired both fell The others heeled like the wind and were off over the ridge but not before in their bullet ... back —Outing

Gold From Cremated Rats

It is said to be a common practice for the boys in watch and jewelry factories to kill the rats that infest the buildings and burn their bodies to obtain the gold Many oiled rags are used in burnishing watch cases and in time they become impregnated with gold The rats ... ly devour these rags and a few months of this kind of diet fills their interior mechanism of the rats with gold plating Twice a year the boys have a grand cremation The rats are caught by the hundred and burned in a crucible The intense heat drives off all animal substance and leaves the gold in the shape of a button The amount of the precious metal obtained in this way is not large but it gives the ... youngsters considerable pocket money In some factories young ... finance ... their fellow workers in the ...
